I have used the ZapBan extension before and thought it was easy to use. However, when you start it for the first time, it asks you for a number of registries and a password. I have no clue where the ZapBan database is located. The help icon does not offer much of an explanation. Is there a way I can access the ZapBan database? ZapBan or Zap0 does not require a database to work it just needs to have it's configs set and its registered. The program in itself is just a frontend and for configuring and registering ZapBan you can do it in many different ways either manually or with a batch script, a sql script or any other tool that allows you to use variables. It's not written in a way that it needs to be connected to a database, it's just a frontend. Interior Minister Mohammed al-Ghabban said the man was alive and in good condition, hours after saying he had been killed. The two Japanese citizens were kidnapped from a restaurant on Saturday. Japanese officials have not confirmed the death of the hostage but the families of two Japanese who were killed in Iraq last year confirmed they were victims of a kidnapping. The Japanese government said it was investigating reports that the man captured on Saturday was still alive. The man is believed to be a member of the military police force in Mosul who fled the restaurant during the hostage-taking. A resident of the city, Taha Rashid Mohammed, told AFP news agency the man had been taken to the hospital and was being treated. The man is reportedly from Amara, a Christian town north of Mosul.

Prognostic value of plasminogen activator inhibitor-1, tissue inhibitor of matrix metalloproteinase-2, and interleukin-6 in patients with cervical cancer with or without concurrent human papillomavirus infection. It is uncertain whether plasminogen activator inhibitor-1 (PAI-1), tissue inhibitor of metalloproteinase-2 (TIMP-2) and interleukin-6 (IL-6) are prognostic factors in cervical cancer. To examine this, we studied their association with patients' survival and clinicopathological data in cervical cancer. Sixty-three patients with histologically proven cervical cancer (stages IB-IV) were studied for PAI-1, TIMP-2 and IL-6 using a commercially available enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay kit. The correlation between their serum levels and the clinicopathological findings was examined. The median follow-up time was 32 months and the 5-year survival rate was 56%. PAI-1 levels were significantly higher in patients with cervical cancer than in controls (36.8 +/- 7.9 ng/mL versus 7.5 +/- 4.6 ng/mL, respectively, P or = 27.0 ng/mL) was significantly lower than that for patients with a low serum PAI-1 level ( or = 0.93 mg/mL) than in those with a low serum TIMP-2 level (
