Download Samsung Galaxy J1 SM-J100H Flash File Stock Firmware ROM Official Thanks for Q: Android notification with send button I've created notification with text and buttons in layout Code: Intent intent = new Intent(MainActivity.this, NotificationReceiver.class); intent.putExtra("title", "Nova Incident"); intent.putExtra("message", "Some message"); PendingIntent contentIntent = PendingIntent.getActivity(MainActivity.this, 0, intent, 0); Notification notification = new NotificationCompat.Builder(MainActivity.this).setContentText("Some message").setContentTitle("New notification").setContentIntent(contentIntent).setSound(RingtoneManager.getDefaultUri(RingtoneManager.TYPE_NOTIFICATION)).build(); notification.setWhen(0); notification.flags = Notification.FLAG_AUTO_CANCEL; notificationManager.notify(0, notification); But I need to implement similar notification like Telegram has. So, basically I want to make notification with text and send button How it can be done? A: I've found the solution which is really similar to Telegram and Google notification So, I've created notifications with custom layouts: First, I've defined notification structure (in MainActivity): public class MainActivity extends AppCompatActivity { private static final String ALARM_COMMAND = "alarm"; private

It may refer to: Oleg Fyodorovskiy (born 1983), Russian football player Roman Fyodorovskiy (born 1949), Russian scientist See also Fedorov (surname) Category:Russian-language surnames===== An important part of the simulation is the determination of the optimal element size that gives the best trade-off between the computational cost and the accuracy. This is particularly important if a high dynamic range in time and space is to be achieved. The optimal element size could possibly vary with the particular application. We have used the same number of element nodes in all the simulations reported here. The minimum number of element nodes needed in each dimension is $N_{\{e\}_1}$ – $\frac{2A_0}{a}$
